Cumberland University

AT LEBANON, TENNESSEE.

TRIENNIAL, AND ANNUAL FOR 1868-9.

LEBANON, TENNESSEE:
NEAL & WADE, "HERALD AND REGISTER" OFFICE.
1869.

Triennial Catalogue.

The large number of graduates sent out from departments which omit the classical course has caused the use of the vernacular in this Triennial.

EXPENSES.

TUITION, FIVE MONTHS TERM, IN ADVANCE.

|---|---|
| Freshman Class, | 30 00 |
| Sophomore " | 30 00 |
| Junior " | 35 00 |
| Senior " | 35 00 |
| Contingent fee, in all Classes, | 5 00 |
| Laboratory fee for Classes in Physical Science, | 2 00 |
| Boarding per week, | $3 50 to 5 00 |

REMARKS ON EXPENSES.

Tuition Fees are never refunded.

Students entering within three weeks of the opening are charged for the full term.

CLUB BOARDING

Is extensively practised, and saves about half the expenses of boarding. Students wishing to enter a Club, furnish their own bedding and rent a room near some family with whom they can have their cooking done.

SUGGESTIONS TO OUR PATRONS.

If possible, every student should enter the institution the first day of the fall term. All new classes are organized the first of that term, and those entering later must take their chances in the classes already organized. Minors should never be left entirely to their own selection of boarding house, nor of studies ; nor should they ever be allowed to open accounts in the stores. A full and regular course of study has immense advantages over all irregular courses.

BOARDING FACILITIES.

Students board with private families. The very best citizens of the town open their doors to boarders, placing generally but two students in a room.

FACILITIES.

Literary Societies, Libraries, Daily Drill, by all the Professors, Practical Instruction, such as fits scholars for active usefulness, rather than literary leisure, are some of the advantages here afforded. The town is eminently healthy, while the moral influences thrown around the student are of incalculable service. A daily prayer meeting, held by the theological students, is open to all the matriculants of the University.

NORMAL DEPARTMENT.

This is a new feature in the University. The plan on which it is organized contemplates the preparation of teachers specially for the various preparatory Schools of this Institution. The aim is to give the honors of this department only to regular graduates, who have pursued the normal course, concurrently with their collegiate studies. Members of this school are required to teach certain classes, under the oversight of the Faculty. They also pursue a regular course of study in the theory of teaching.

ELECTIVE COURSES.

Several courses of the Elective Studies are provided for as follows:

Selection from the Department of Arts and of Modern Languages.

Selections from the Department of Arts and the full Theological Course: See plan of "Concurrent" Course.

Selections from Department of Arts and the full Commercial Course.

At the same time, it will be remembered that the regular course has great advantages over any other.

MASTER'S DEGREE.

A regular course of elective studies has been organized preparatory to this degree. Bachelors aiming at the master's degree will be expected to undergo an examination on the prescribed studies, or their equivalents. A wide field of equivalents to select from is contemplated; while the study of any learned profession, so as to secure a degree therein, will be accepted as equivalent to half of the prescribed course.

COURSE OF ELECTIVE STUDIES.

Mental Philosophy: Hamilton, Kant, Reid, Bain, Porter, Aristotle.

Logic: Hamilton, Aristotle, Mill.

Ethics: The Bible, Seneca, Helvetius.

Evidence of Christianity: Lardner, Chalmers, Butler.

(Four of the above required.)

Mathematics: Analytical Geometry, Calculus, Dif. Int. and Variations, Analytical Mechanics, Astronomy.

Natural Science: Proficiency in some one is preferred.

Classics: Eclogues, Georgics, Art of Poetry, Oration for Milo, Isocrates, Livy, or one modern language mastered, so as to speak and write it.

Examination Fee,.....$15

Diploma Fee,..... 5

OUR SPECIAL PREPARATORY SCHOOLS.

Under able corps of teachers, selected by the University, Special Schools have been organized to train students for the Collegiate Department. These are located in Memphis, Tenn., in Greenwood, Sumner county, Tenn., in Alexandria, Tenn., in Goodlettsville, Tenn., in Brownsville, Tenn., and in Jonesboro, Ala.

These Schools are under our own Alumni, or well known graduates of other Colleges. Their regular system of training students for College gives them great advantages over irregular schools.

GRADING.

Each Student is furnished with a monthly statement of his grading, signed by the Grading Clerk, S. C. Lokey, which he is expected to mail his parents or guardian.

HONOR MEN.

The Memphis Department requests the publication of its first honor men, as follows: Charles Prescott, First Honor. Second Honor—Sidney Lamb, Jasper C. Griffin, Merrill Kremer, James Saunders, W. T. Donaldson, William Hall.

The Commercial School.

FACULTY.

REV. B. W. McDONNOLD,
President.

H. S. KENNEDY,
Professor of Book-keeping, Commercial Correspondence and Penmanship.

WILLIAM J. GRANNIS,
Professor of Business Correspondence, of Banking, and Laws of Trade.

COURSE OF STUDY.

Book-keeping—Bryant & Stratton's complete course.
Penmanship—Spencer's Manual.
Commercial Arithmetic—Crittenden.
Geography of Trade—Warren.
Business and Legal Forms and Mercantile Correspondence—Crittenden.
Success in Business—Freedly.

Lectures on Commercial Law, on the National Banking System, on Private Banks, and the usuances of Business Corporations.

PLAN OF INSTRUCTION.—The entire Board of Instruction will be actively engaged. The afternoon of each day will be devoted to the School. The exercises of each class will be under the personal supervision of its Professor. Values will be represented by slips of paper. Commission, wholesale and retail houses will be opened. Various business corporations formed, and the details of actual business life entered into, and practically discussed, thus preparing the student for any emergency that may arise.

FEES.—For those who are not Students of the University $20. Contingent fee $5. For those who are Students, one half of the above.

ADVANTAGES.—It is designed in this School to supplant the mental gymnasium with the mental workshop, and to unite what is intellectually beneficial with what is practically useful. Those satisfactorily completing the course, will be awarded by the Trustees of the University a certificate as Regular Accountants and facilities will thus be presented for acquiring immediate and lucrative employment.

ADDITIONAL.—As soon as practicable, instruction will be given in Telegraphing and Stenography.

AIM.—This is not a preparatory to a Commercial College, but a Commercial College itself. Its grade is to be inferior to none. In practical usefulness it has peculiar claims upon young men desiring preparation for business life. And there are none but may derive very material advantage from pursuing the full course.

Modern Languages.

Faculty.

B. W. McDONNOLD,
President.

OLIVER HOLBEN,
Professor of French and German

Prof. Holben has spent five years in the best Universities of Germany and France. He gives his classes practical instruction, that soon enables them to speak and write, as well as read, those languages.

The large German element in the population of our country makes their language a necessity to Professional men.

Theological Department.

FACULTY.

B. W. McDONNOLD, D. D.,
President, and Professor of Pastoral Theology.

RICHARD BEARD, D. D.,
Professor of Systematic Theology.

OBJECTS OF THE THEOLOGICAL SCHOOL.

It is the desire of those in charge of the Theological Department to contribute as far as they may be able towards furnishing to the Church, not only an intelligent, but a practical ministry. The text-books are considered practical. Practical habits are encouraged among the young men here. By preaching in vacant congregations around, and laboring in Sunday-schools in destitute neighborhoods, they make themselves useful, and acquire such habits as must greatly increase their usefulness hereafter. A ministry so educated cannot fail to be a blessing to the Church.

We do not believe that the highest degree of intellectual culture has any tendency to impair, but rather to improve, the spirituality of religion when the culture is connected with practical religious habits.

The Trustees have determined to open the Theological Department regularly for the admission of students next Fall. Provision will be made for three full recitations each day, conducted by the Professor, with the aid of the President. The course of studies will embrace the Greek and Hebrew Scriptures, Systematic Theology, Hebrew and Christian Antiquities, Evidences of Christianity, Ecclesiastical History, Pulpit Elocution, and Pastoral Theology. This course of studies will be connected with Lectures upon the several subjects of study, or collateral subjects.

The Trustees and Faculty have agreed upon a concurrent course of Literature, Science, and Theology, by which a student may carry forward some of the regular College Studies most necessary as a preparation for the Ministry in connection with his Theological Studies. By pursuing this course he may graduate as a Bachelor in Theology at the expiration of four years from the time of his entrance into the Freshman Class. This arrangement is made, however, with the understanding that the last of the four years shall be devoted wholly to Theological studies.

Students who are prepared at once to enter successfully upon the studies of the Greek and Hebrew Scriptures can complete the Theological course in two years. Provision will also be made for those whose circumstances compel them to a shorter course.

Whole number, 53.

This Institution was organized in September, 1868, and has been in successful operation over since. As will be seen by the Catalogue, more than fifty young Ministers have, during the year, enjoyed its benefits. It is supported wholly by contributions in provisions and money from the Churches.

TERMS.

1. A contingent fee of $10 is required to be paid in advance, not to be refunded in any case.

2. No one is admitted until he has furnished evidence that he is a candidate for the Ministry, in the care of some Presbytery in the Cumberland Presbyterian Church.

3. A room is furnished with a bunk and chairs and a table. The Student furnishes his own wood, washing, lights, bedding, and whatever else he may need. Of course no charge is made for board. All eat at one table, where every appliance is provided.

4. Candidates for the Ministry pay no tuition; but before entering College each one is required to pay $5 contingent tax.

The whole expense of attending Camp Blake, including both contingent taxes and books, per session, need not exceed $50, and by very rigid economy may be considerably less.

CONTRIBUTIONS.

Money for Camp Blake, may be sent to Hon. Nathan Green, Lebanon, Tenn.

Provisions should be sent to the same address, care of L. H. Lanier, Nashville, Tenn.

FREE TUITION.

Candidates for the ministry are taught gratuitously in the departments of arts and of theology. This favor is extended on the faith of the Church, and with the full expectation that the Institution will be furnished with money enough to enable it to continue this policy.

Plan of Instruction.

It is only by exerting the energies of his own mind that a student can qualify himself for the bar. Any plan which would propose to make a lawyer of him without his doing the hard work for himself, would be idle and visionary. The virtue of any plan of instruction must consist of two things :

1. That it cause the student to work, or, in other words, to study diligently.

2. That it so guide and direct his work, as in the best way, and shortest time, to qualify him to practice law.

First : It must be such a plan as is best calculated to make him study.

Our plan is, to give him a lesson every day, and examine him on next day from one to three hours. He has to answer questions in the presence of the whole class. If he has any spirit in him—any pride of character—any sense of shame—this will insure the closest application of which he is capable ; for indolence is sure to sink him to a degraded position in his class.

There are only two other plans of getting a legal education. One is the old plan of studying in lawyers' offices ; the other is the old Law School plan of teaching by lectures. Neither of these has any thing in it to secure application. The student is brought to no daily examination to test his proficiency. There is not the presence of a large class, in which he has to take rank either high or low. All that is calculated to stimulate him to constant, laborious application, is wanting in both these plans.

Secondly : The plan should not only be calculated to make a student work, but it ought to so guide and direct him as to make him work to the greatest advantage.

A man may work very hard, but still so unwisely, that he will accomplish no valuable object. It is equally so with the farmer, the mechanic, and the law student. The student ought to have such a course of study assigned him, and be conducted through it in such a way as that he will understand at the end of his pupilage the greatest amount of pure, living, American law, and will know best how to apply it in practice. So brief is the period that they can be induced to spend in preparation for the bar, that it requires a very careful selection of text-books, and a careful supervision of their studies, to make their labors profitable. We have made our course American. Important as it is to trace the history of the law from its original sources, through all its mutations, it is not the appropriate work of the very short term which is, in our country, employed in preparation for license.

To direct their minds to what is most important in the text-books ; to teach them what is, and what is not settled ; to correct the errors into which they may fall ; to dispel the darknness that hangs upon many passages—this is necessary every day, and at every step of their progress. The law is a vast science, and a very difficult one, and the student needs every possible facility to enable him, by the most arduous labor, to comprehend its leading elementary principles in fifteen months.

But this is not all he has to do. He has to learn how to apply these principles in practice. This is the art of his profession, and he can only learn it by practice. It is as necessary a preparation for assuming the responsibilities of a lawyer as the learning of the science. If he learns it at the bar, it is at the expense of the client. If he learns it in the School, it is at his own expense.

MOOT COURTS.

The exercises in these Courts do not consist in merely debating questions of law, but cases are announced in various forms to each student, on which he is to bring a suit, and another is appointed to defend it. There is a regular clerk and sheriff; the students, however, perform the duties of these officers in their own cases. The plaintiff's attorney gives his prosecution bond, issues his writ with the name of the clerk signed to it, makes the proper returns on it in the name of the sheriff, files his declaration, and keeps his own docket, besides having the case entered on the clerk's docket. He then hands his papers to the defendant's attorney, who examines them, and moves to dismiss the suit, or pleads in abatement, or demurs, or pleads in chief. If he fails to make defence in proper time, the plaintiff takes judgment by default against him. If the plaintiff fails to reply, or at any time takes the necessary step to prosecute the suit, he is non prossed by the defendant.

When the case is ready for trial, a jury of the students is empanneled, the cause is regularly submitted to them, the evidence on each side is introduced, the cause argued, the jury charged by the court, and a verdict rendered. Judgment is entered, and execution issues. On these executions, returns are directed to be made in some cases that will subject the sheriff to summary judgment, and the plaintiff is required to move against him and his sureties, and adduce the official bond and the other evidence that may be necessary to sustain the motion, and then to enter the judgment on his minutes. In other cases, delivery bonds are given; in others, indemnity bonds; in others, one of the parties die; and in fine, the various cases are so directed as to involve all the varieties of practice that arise on executions.

In other cases, motions for new trial are made and overruled, and an appeal taken to the Supreme Court, an appeal-bond given, a bill of exceptions filed, and the record regularly transferred to that court, where the judgment is affirmed, or reversed and remanded for a new trial.

Equity cases are in like manner announced, and suits commenced and carried through all the processes known in the Chancery Court, such as references to the Clerk and Master, final and interlocutory decrees, and appeals to the Supreme Court.

In some cases, suits are commenced before Justices of the Peace, and brought into the Circuit Court by appeal or certiorari, and tried there.

Sometimes a regular Venire Facias is returned as from the County Court—a grand jury organized and charged by the Court, State cases given to the students, in which they act as Attorneys-General, prepare indictments, have them regularly passed upon by the grand jury, and carry them through all the processes of a criminal prosecution—an advocate being always appointed to defend.

Cases are so framed as to put the student under the necessity of preparing the various kinds of instruments that are used in the transactions of men. Letters of administration, wills with proper certificates of probate, deeds duly proved and registered, promissory notes, marriage licenses, etc., etc. He is obliged to introduce them as evidence to sustain his suit or defence.

A Moot Court is held at the close of each collegiate year in public, which excites great interest among the students, and greatly attracts the community.

The advantage of this Moot Court system is that it not only indoctrinates a student in the elementary principles of law involved in his cases, but also in the law of remedies. It trains him also to the discussion of facts, and to the exercise of that tact which is so important in real practice.

It may be objected that the course of practice, being according to the Tennessee law, is too local to be of very great benefit to students intending to locate out of this State. To this it may be answered that it is obliged to be conducted according to the law of some State, and it had better be that with which the Professors are best acquainted. Tennessee occupies at present a middle ground between those States that have abolished the common law system of remedies and those that have essentially adhered to it. The student who becomes acquainted with her mingled system will be prepared to accommodate himself very readily to the rules of practice in any other State. There is a stronger analogy between the laws of Tennessee and any other State in the Union, than between the laws of England and any other State. American constitutions, statutes, and usages, have established a jurisprudence which, however variously modified in the different States, is nevertheless stamped everywhere with kindred American features. Such, for instance, is the law of descents, the law of conveyancing, and their court systems. Their processes to bring the parties before the court, to obtain testimony, to try the case, and to carry the judgment or decree into execution, are analogous. The principal difference is in the modes of judicial allegation, some adhering to the forms of common law, and some adopting statements at large. As it is necessary for the student to understand some system, it had better be a medial American system. The practice is similar in all the States. A lawyer who understands the practice of one State can accommodate himself to that of another as easily as the mechanic, who understands his profession, can accommodate himself to the ever changing styles and fashions in his art. Students in all the classes are drilled in Moot Court practice.

JUDGE CARUTHERS.

It is proper to state that Judge Caruthers' connection with the Law School is no longer nominal, but actual and permanent, and that he performs regular duty in the Recitations and Moot Courts daily.

| Washburn on Real Property. | |
| Redfield on Wills. | |

This course is very imperfect; but it is necessarily so. The question with us has been whether the very short time the student devotes to preparation had better be spent in studying those venerable English authors who present the law as it was, or the American authors who present it as it is. He must study the former before he can claim to be a learned lawyer, and he will study them if he aspires to an elevated rank in his profession. But as the design of his scholastic course is, or ought to be, to fit him as far as possible for discharging the duties of a lawyer, we think it is best that he should first acquire a knowledge of American jurisprudence, as it now exists and exerts a living power; and, for want of time, we are compelled to reject many books that would be important to effect this end.

The student furnishes his own books. They may be obtained in Lebanon. The books in the Junior course will cost in Lebanon,
